In this course we will identify US women of color and Indigenous feminist’s main intellectual interventions, concerns and praxis. In the first part of the class, we will look at key themes in women of color and Indigenous feminisms including: colonialism, representation, sexuality, belonging, sexism and racism. The second part of the class will focus on women of color and Indigenous women’s critique of and organizing around issues of state violence, reproductive rights, settler colonialism and the prison industrial complex.

LAURA SACHIKO FUGIKAWA CRN 21128
lsachikofugikawa@smith.edu