with Lisa Lowe and Jack Halberstam

Friday, November 21st
Noon - 1 pm
Seeyle 201

As academics Lisa Lowe and Jack Halberstam are well known for their scholarship on policing the borders of nation-states and gender regimes. From Lowe’s Immigrant Acts to Halberstam’s Female Masculinity, their work challenges how we think about race, about sexuality and gender identity. Together they have edited the Duke University series called Perverse Modernities for over 10 years, publishing books that explore the economies of race, colonialism and sexuality.

They will join us in a conversation about their own work as it meets the news seen fit to print.

Lunch will be served in Seeyle 207
